

A man who's a way with words, not away with the fairies ...

Welcome to my minimalist show-disk.

In an attempt to whet appetites without boring anybody's pants off, there are just a few samples of work here. And my CV, should anyone need it. But if you require further examples of what I do please email me on paul@pauldunwell.co.uk

Don't be afraid to ask; I've written every kind of material imaginable for both traditional and new media, so I can almost certainly source a piece which demonstrates my ability to write precisely what you need.

For anybody who didn't realise, I also provide far more than simply a copywriting service. My background spans account and project management as well as market intelligence and creative direction.

Indeed, virtually every item on this facility was not only written by me but also managed by me in its entirety from concept to delivery.

So, if you need more than just the text, it's always worth having a chat about what you want.

Looking forward to hearing from you,

Paul Dunwell

